Dear Seattle City Council,

I write to you today to tell you more about my interests, my qualifications, and myself. I would be honored to fill the council seat and fulfill those duties until the new mayor is elected in November. I have a strong moral compass and am passionate about the areas of distress that affect our city, such as the disproportionate discrimination against minorities in the legal system and climate change. I have worked as a chemist in different fields that promote clean energy and understand the difficulties of implementing different forms of carbon-free energy. My Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy with the Minor in Ethics was highly focused on ethics of climate change as well as ethics in policy and the legal system.

I am familiar with budget management, as I have to budget my own personal income with other expenses necessary to continue my stay in Seattle. Not only this, I am also familiar with budgeting for research purposes to manage how much financial support we are allotted and the cost of materials and other resources we need to complete our task. This also involves time-management and cost-benefit analyses. Since finances are not unlimited, we have to make decisions on what is most necessary or beneficial to the research project.

I am very interested in holding the open position on the city council. I am a very passionate and enthusiastic individual who goes above and beyond the call of duty. I would be honored and humbled by the opportunity to be able to serve the Seattle community and to uphold their moral values. I look forward to speak with you all in person. The best way to reach me is either by phone or email, both of which can be found in my resume. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Kaylee Ryann McClure
