

HARBORVIEW MEDICAL CENTER SAC

UPDATED July 21, 2017

PATRICIA BRADBURY

Ms. Bradbury, a graphic designer, was Art Director at Newsweek Magazine from 1985-1994 and Art Director at New York Magazine from 1980-1985. She worked at Microsoft as the Brand Manager for Design from 2000-2011. She has lived in The Old Colony on First Hill since 1999 and has been active on the condo board as a member from 2000-2012 and as president 2004-2008. She is a proponent of residential growth on First Hill and is concerned with making First Hill a vibrant residential as well as business community.

JIM ERICKSON

Mr. Erickson is a retired engineer who has rented an apartment on First Hill since 1998. His interest lies in searching for opportunities to improve First Hill. He is a Board member of the East and West Precinct Advisory Councils where he has advocated to focus crime prevention measures. Mr. Erickson is a member of the VMMC SAC and on the Board of the First Hill Improvement Association (FHIA) where he is Chair of their Urban Design and Public Space Committee and worked with SDOT/DPD/Parks to create the First Hill Public Realm Action Plan (PRAP). Mr. Erickson is an advocate for pedestrian access and improvements across First Hill.

ELIZABETH ESSELMAN

Ms. Esselman, a native of Seattle, has worked at Harborview Medical Center in the Volunteer and Community Services office since 2011. She currently runs an injury prevention coalition called Safe Kids Seattle South King and the hospital community outreach program. She focuses on community collaboration, coalition building, and accessible safety interventions.

MARISA HAGNEY

Ms. Hagney manages the Living Community Challenge for the International Living Future Institute, a non-profit based in Seattle that is committed to catalyzing the transformation toward communities that are socially just, culturally rich and ecologically restorative. She works with communities around the world taking the lead in applying concepts of net positive energy and water, micro-mobility, urban agriculture and equitable place. Marisa plays an active role as the Co-Chair of the American Institute of Architects (AIA) Seattle's Urban Design Forum and on the AIA Seattle's Board of Directors. Ms. Hagney received her B.S. in Architectural Studies from Washington State University. She is an avid bike commuter.

LINDSEY MATETICH (CHAIR)

KRISTIN O'DONNELL

KENDA SALISBURY

Ms. Salisbury has worked in marketing and business development for the past 17 years. She specializes in business to business selling for architects, engineers, and contractors. Currently, she is the Pacific Northwest Business Development Manager for Degenkolb Engineers, a structural engineering firm with five offices along the West Coast. Ms. Salisbury is a Past President of the Society for Marketing Professional Services (SMPS), Seattle Chapter. She is an active resident in the Central District and is passionate about ensuring that businesses fit into the fabric of the community.

JACKSON TAYLOR (VICE-CHAIR)

Jackson Taylor works as a Community Projects Manager for Puget Sound Energy, where he collaborates with community stakeholders in Seattle and other cities to devise solutions to the region's thorniest infrastructure challenges. Jackson also serves as a board member with the Renton Community Foundation. Prior to his role at PSE, Jackson was state organizing director of the Repower America PAC in Indiana, and the political director of numerous state and local electoral campaigns. Jackson graduated Summa Cum Laude from Washington State University with a BS in Economics, Political Science, and History. When he's not volunteering, you can find Jackson touring the region's food and drink scene and spending time outdoors with his wife, Ana.

VALERIE TRAN

Ms. Tran works in the International District for an affordable housing and community development organization and resides in First Hill. She joined the Harborview SAC because lives and works nearby and is interested in working more closely with hospitals to understand their physical and social impact on communities and neighborhoods. Ms. Tran has degrees in urban Planning and Health Management & Policy from the University of Michigan.

SAM RUSSELL (ALTERNATE)

Mr. Russell lives in the Decatur building on First Hill and volunteered for this position to help ensure the neighborhood history and pedestrian scale is preserved. He works as a design-build project manager and have extensive experience working with different municipalities and design teams nationwide.

FREDERICK SCHEETZ

Mr. Scheetz is a Managing Partner at Breier-Scheetz Properties. As an owner of a neighboring residential property, Mr. Scheetz brings the viewpoint of a neighboring landlord doing business in a neighborhood dominated by a major institution.