2017 State Legislative Bulletin

February 20, 2017

Number 6

The City of Seattle is committed to being a safe, vibrant, interconnected, and affordable city for all.

Week Overview

Week six concluded with the house of origin policy cutoff on February 17th. Bills needed to be passed out of their policy committees by 5:00PM on February 17th, to continue in the legislative process this session. About 2,300 bills have been introduced so far this session and only a fraction of those made it past the first cutoff. Bills that have a financial impact will need to be voted out of their respective fiscal committees (e.g., House Finance, House Appropriations, House and Senate Transportation, and Senate Ways & Means) by February 24th. Any bill deemed necessary to implement the budget (NTIB) can be exempt from these cut off deadlines. The upcoming week will have a heightened urgency as legislators work to move as much legislation as possible out of fiscal committees to make it through this second hurdle.

While most activity was focused on cutoff this week, funding for education continues to be at the center of discussions in Olympia. There has been activity on both sides of the aisle around their education funding plans, but neither side appears to be open to compromise yet.

Priority Areas

Education

Education Funding Plans: SSB 5607, the Senate Republican's education funding plan, sponsored by Sen. Braun (R), passed off the Senate floor on February 1st, and had a public hearing in the House Appropriations Committee on February 6th.

Moderate Democrats in the Senate released a new proposal this week, SB 5825, sponsored by Sen Mullet (D). This bill is intended to be a middle-ground solution between the current Democrat and Republican proposals. Under the proposal, current local levies would be made permanent and collected through the State which would then distribute the money to the school district. The plan also adds additional funding for the levy equalization program, which aims to help “property-poor” districts.

Levy Cliff: SHB 1059, which would extend the current school district levy authority by one year, was passed out of the House on January 23rd, and received a public hearing in the Senate Ways and Means Committee on January 30th. SSB 5073 received executive action on February 16th, in the Senate Law & Justice Committee where it was amended to add intent language that states it is necessary for law enforcement to build trust in the diverse communities they serve.
