March 27, 2017

Number 11

The City of Seattle is committed to being a safe, vibrant, interconnected, and affordable city for all.

Week Overview

Activity in Olympia through week 11 was mostly focused on the release of Senate budget proposals. On March 20th, Senate Republicans released a nearly $8.4 billion 2017-2019 biennium Transportation Budget proposal and a 2017 Supplemental Transportation Budget. This proposed budget received a public hearing in the Senate Transportation Committee on March 21st, and was voted out of committee on March 22nd.

On March 21st, Senate Republicans also released their $43 billion 2017-2019 proposed Operating Budget. The proposal increases spending by $4.8 billion compared to the 2015-2017 Operating Budget and relies upon $200 million in fund transfers to the general fund from other state accounts as well as uses $700 million of the budget stabilization account ("rainy day fund") for unfunded liability in the PERS 1 retirement system. It includes $1.8 billion for K-12 education the first biennium (2017-2019) and $5.9 billion for K-12 education the following biennium (2019-2021). This proposal does not rely upon new revenue, but does use a levy swap with property taxes to provide an estimated $1.5 billion for 2017-2019 in revenue for K-12 education funding (and an estimated $4.1 billion in revenue for 2019-2021 biennium). The proposed Operating budget received a public hearing in the Senate Ways & Means Committee the same day it was released, and on March 22nd, the bill received an executive session after 73 amendments were considered. On March 23rd, the Senate voted the proposed budget off the floor with a party line 25-24 vote.

On Thursday, March 23rd, councilmembers visited Olympia to meet with key legislators from both chambers to discuss the City's legislative priorities. Thank you to all the councilmember who visited Olympia for the second City of Seattle Lobby Day.
