2017 State Legislative Bulletin

March 13, 2017

Number 9

The City of Seattle is committed to being a safe, vibrant, interconnected, and affordable city for all.

Week Overview

Week nine saw legislators working hard to vote bills out of their House of Origin before the cutoff on Wednesday, March 8th at 5:00 pm. Any bill that did not pass off the floor in the chamber it was originally introduced is considered dead unless it is deemed necessary to implement the budget (NTIB). While there were many bills that did get through, many still were either never pulled out of the Rules committee or were not brought to the floor for a vote and are therefore considered dead for the session. So far this session, 2372 bills have been introduced, but only 667 officially made it through the house of origin cutoff. Again, this does not count bills that are NTIB, but it does give a little perspective of how many bills have and have not made it through the process so far.

Following Wednesday's cutoff, the rest of the week was relatively quiet with just a couple of committee hearings and work sessions. It was a brief, quiet lull before things get busy again next week.
