Continuing to create Community and to Honor King County homeless people who've died

Homeless Remembrance Project

There is currently no established place in the world to remember and honor people who've died while homeless. The absence of such a place is a source of great pain to the homeless community and its supporters. In 2003, WHEEL (Women's Housing and Equality Enhancement League), a grassroots organizing effort of homeless and formerly homeless women, established a Homeless Remembrance Project Committee, which grew out of Women in Black vigils to remember homeless people who've died outside or by violence in King County--more than 400 people in the past eleven years. Together with a broad spectrum of supporters, WHEEL and the Homeless Remembrance Project Committee have worked to establish public places of gathering, beauty and remembrance to honor homeless people who have died in King County.

The Homeless Remembrance Project Committee has built broad, far-reaching support with people from all walks of life and across many neighborhoods: in the faith community, among social service providers, and with designers, artists and funders. We have achieved many victories in the past eight years. In 2005, AIA-Seattle selected our project as the "Design Challenge" for their Annual Honor Awards; entries were displayed in the lobby of Seattle City Hall. That same year, Seattle City Council unanimously passed a resolution supporting the Homeless Place of Remembrance on public land. We have partnerships with the Seattle Department of Parks and Recreation, Seattle Department of Transportation (SDOT), and the Seattle Department of Neighborhoods (DON), which funded our Conceptual Design Process (with a DON Small and Simple Fund matching grant) and is providing support and partial funding for construction (through its DON Large Project Fund matching grant).

The concept of the Homeless Remembrance Project is twofold: a "Tree of Life" gathering place and sculpture in Victor Steinbrueck Park and "Leaves of Remembrance" embedded in sidewalks throughout Seattle. It is unique in its approach to raising awareness about homelessness through a public art project that has both a permanent presence and an ongoing outreach activity. It raises awareness of the struggles of the homeless community and the essential dignity of those struggles, while fostering a co-operative approach to ending homelessness.

The URL "www.fallenleaves.org" is engraved in a clean, sans-serif font across the face of one of the gear's teeth. The background is a dark, textured surface, possibly a concrete or stone floor, which is slightly out of focus.

THE HOMELESS REMEMBRANCE PROJECT

warmly invites you to our

Memorial Day "Call to Community" Celebration at our "Tree of Life" in Victor Steinbrueck Park

For nine years the homeless women of WHEEL/Women in Black, together with community supporters, have worked to develop public gathering places (and art) to celebrate life, to promote healing and peace, to build community, and to remember homeless people who've died in King County. Our Homeless Remembrance Project is twofold:

Bronze "Leaves of Remembrance," with names, in sidewalks (109 Leaves so far in six neighborhoods), and a beautiful "Tree of Life" sculpture and gathering place in Victor Steinbrueck Park, north of Pike Place Market.

PLEASE JOIN US at a MEMORIAL DAY COMMUNITY CELEBRATION

2-4 PM MONDAY, MAY 27TH, 2013

AT the "Tree of Life" in the NE corner of Victor Steinbrueck Park (Western and Virginia, north of Pike Place Market)!!

Our "Call to Community" event will be a very brief ritual to remember and honor homeless people who've died this year in King County, and then we'll come together as a community of hope, with music and food. Bring your friends & family!

Personal stories

For nine years, the Homeless Remembrance Project—a collaborative effort of homeless women, faith community leaders, designers, artists, social service providers and other friends—has worked to create places of hope, healing, and beauty to honor and remember homeless people who've died in King County. Our concept is twofold: The Tree of Life, in Victor Steinbrueck Park, is a sculpture with space for community gathering, hope, and healing; to recognize that we are one people, homeless and housed together, and we can end homelessness. Leaves of Remembrance on Seattle sidewalks bear the names of those who have died, and at the site ~~Fallen~~ Leaves we share their stories.

Robert Hansen: 1951–2010

October 31st, 2011 | Author: LeafAdmin

Robert Hansen 1951–2010

Robert Hansen was known and loved by many people: as a Real Change vendor, as an activist, and as a friend. He helped others by standing up for what he believed in, by mentoring others, and in countless small personal ways like petting a customer's dog while she was shopping.

Robert died April 28, 2010, sleeping in his truck, two days after being released from hospital with orders for bed rest. A public memorial service May 14 filled the plaza in front of City Hall with friends from Real Change, Seward Park, Nickelsville, SHARE/WHEEL, and City Hall itself. Seward Park PCC, where Robert sold Real Change for many years, donated funds to dedicate a vendor learning lab to Robert in the new Pioneer Square offices of Real Change. The Real Change announcement of his death received 45 comments.

In life, Robert was interviewed by the Seattle Times, the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, and the New York Times. His death was covered by KPLU and the Seattle Times, as well as Real Change, the Seward Park PCC newsletter, and Sally Clark of the City Council.
