

PORTAGE BAY PARK

Seattle Parks and Recreation invites the community to an online open house about the development of a waterfront park on Portage Bay (1101-1137 NE Boat Street). This is an online opportunity for you to learn about the project, see some initial design concepts and provide feedback.

Seattle Parks and the design team will incorporate community feedback into a preferred design and host opportunities to comment on the design in early 2016.

We encourage all families, students, and neighbors to log on and participate in the planning of this new waterfront park.

PORTAGE BAY PARK

Seattle Parks and Recreation invites the community to an online open house about the development of a waterfront park on Portage Bay.

The goal for the project is to design a park that provides shoreline/water-related experiences for all ages and abilities. The park will provide small gathering areas, picnic spots and informal recreational opportunities. It will include hand carried boat access, natural shoreline habitat, and interpretative and educational elements. The project also includes cleanup of site contamination, building demolition, and potential partial re-use of building elements.
