

March 31, 2022

The Honorable Teresa Mosqueda
Chair, Finance and Housing Committee
Seattle City Council
Seattle City Hall
600 Fourth Ave., Second Floor
Seattle, WA 98101

Councilmember Mosqueda,

The following is the 2022 Annual Property Report of all fee-owned real property under City ownership, as required by Resolution 31837 (Oct 2018). The Annual Property Report supports strategic management of the City's real estate holdings.

Each January, FAS' Real Estate Services Division initiates the annual review process for all City departments with jurisdiction over real property to ensure that all acquisitions, transfers, and dispositions are accurately represented and logged in a central database. Departments validate and provide information about each property. Each property is classified based on level of utilization – from fully utilized municipal use to excess property available for re-use as affordable housing or transfer to another department for another use.

If you have questions about the Annual Report, please contact FAS' Division Director of Real Estate Services, Karen Gruen, at 206-503-0544.

Sincerely,

Calvin W. Goings
Department Director
Finance and Administrative Services

Real Estate Oversight Committee (REOC)

Highlights of the March 2022 Annual Real Property Report

The 2022 report lists a total of 1,089 property management areas (PMAs) where the City has property ownership interests. That represents an increase of 12 PMAs since March 2021. A PMA can vary in size from 56 square feet (SF) to over 3 million SF and may include one or multiple tax parcels.

Twenty-three real estate transactions were reported by all City departments this past year, and nearly half of those were property acquisitions by Office of Housing from Sound Transit.

Per Council Resolution 31837, properties newly designated as Excess are reviewed by FAS for prioritization by Office of Housing for affordable housing development. Not all properties designated as Excess are suitable for redevelopment. Some have steep slopes or other site characteristics that make them difficult building sites, yet they might have value to the City for other purposes, such as drainage sites or vegetative buffers. Excess properties for one department might have a use by another department, and if both departments agree, a property may be transferred through a Transfer of Jurisdiction Ordinance (TJO). When no other municipal use exists, Excess properties may be sold to the public, following a surplus process that requires City Council approval.

Currently, the number of Excess PMAs citywide is 115, and 74 of those are under 5,000 SF.
