III. HSD’s Results-Based Accountability Framework & Theory of Change

HSD developed a results-driven investment strategy modeled after Results-Based Accountability (RBA)¹. RBA helps HSD move from ideas to action and ensure that the department’s work is making a difference in the lives of vulnerable people. This framework also helps ensure that HSD is a highly functional, accountable organization that is leading the way toward addressing community disparities.

The RBA Framework helps HSD to:

- DEFINE results for the department’s investments
- ALIGN the department’s financial resources to the results
- EVALUATE result progress to ensure return on investment

HSD developed a Theory of Change for funding processes to ensure that data informs our investments – particularly around addressing disparities – and shows the logical link between the desired results, indicators of success, racial equity goals based on disparity data, strategies for achieving the desired results, and performance measures.

¹ Friedman, M. (2005) Trying Hard Is Not Good Enough: How to Produce Measurable Improvements for Customers and Communities: FPSI Publishing

In 2018, HSD, as directed by Ordinance 125474, began identifying gender disparity data and included gender equity goals in funding processes. See below for the Theory of Change that informs this funding process.

All investments resulting from this funding opportunity will demonstrate alignment with HSD’s Theory of Change towards achieving the desired result that: all people living in Seattle are able to meet their basic needs.

IV. Investment Area Background & Program Requirements

A. Overview of Investment Area

In 2017, the Seattle City Council passed the Sweetened Beverage Tax Ordinance 125324, which states:

“In King County, an estimated 271,380 people, or ten percent of households, cannot afford enough healthy food for their families, and nearly half of these households are not eligible for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) benefits, commonly referred to as ‘food stamps’...”

“...the ‘food security gap’ affects many people who are not eligible for SNAP benefits but struggle to afford healthy food, particularly as the cost of living in Seattle continues to increase...”

“...the City of Seattle’s Equity and Environment Agenda identifies addressing the lack of access to healthy, affordable food as a major priority for communities in Seattle.”

The need for healthy, affordable food was also supported by feedback gleaned from more than 25 community engagement listening circles conducted by HSD in 2017. Participants discussed the impact of discrimination on their lives and offered input related to safety, food and nutrition, and supporting families. The community input informed four different funding processes, including this Food Bank Services RFP. The need for healthy and affordable food was a consistent priority identified in listening circles.

In Seattle, about 13% of adults reported experiencing food insecurity. Seattle families with children experienced even higher rates of food insecurity, from 22% of families with young children (Best Starts for Kids Survey) to 51% of low-income families with children (Seattle Shopping and Wellness Survey). While estimates vary across data sources, there were consistent patterns showing, people of color, lower-income populations, and those who identified as lesbian, gay, or bisexual more commonly reported experiences of food insecurity when compared to the data gathered on other populations. Participation in the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program/Basic Food continued to rise among older adults. Not until 300% of the Federal Poverty Level (FPL) do we see food insecurity begin to drop to a low level for Seattle adults. For Seattle adults of color, it is at 400% of the FPL. In 2017, about 13,400 Seattle residents experienced food insecurity, yet their incomes were too high to qualify for food assistance benefits. The estimate of those experiencing food insecurity would be higher if the count included people who were receiving benefits.⁴

This Geographic Specific Food Bank Services RFP addresses the needs of communities located in the corridor around the Duwamish waterway. In the 2019 Healthy Food Availability & Food Bank Network Report, the study identified that people with longer travel times to fresh food lived in areas by water such as the Duwamish waterway, including Delridge, Georgetown, and South Park.⁵

B. Service/Program Model

This Food Bank Services RFP is focused on investing in Geographic Specific Food Bank Services to low-income individuals and families in Delridge, Georgetown, and South Park neighborhoods including, but not limited to:

1. Basic food bank operations;

- American Indian/Alaska Native
- Black/African American
- Native Hawaiian/Pacific Islander
- Hispanic/Latinx

Priority and focus populations for this funding are based on HSD's Results Based Accountability (RBA) framework and ensures the department's investments are dedicated to addressing disparities in the population. Applicants should demonstrate their intention and plan to address the disparities associated with the Priority and Focus Populations. Proposals that clearly describe a plan to address significant needs among other populations will also be considered.
