Results, Reviews, References:

- Seattle Public Schools review: "Spring Academy consistently provided service beyond expectations." References available.
- References also available from partner schools, "They're highly qualified, and one of the options used by Seattle Public Schools to provide services. I've met with their principal and worked with one of their tutors this year and been quite pleased."

Our expanding work with SPS and private schools throughout Seattle is based on their assessment of our program results and success. All of our students have made significant academic gains contributing to successful progress toward one or multiple academic SMART goals. This progress is continually measured through daily tracking (samples available) and formative assessments, test scores, evaluations, grades, and attendance. We frequently survey students, parents and staff and receive excellent reviews for the quality of our instruction, careful attention to individual student needs, and our proactive communication and cooperation with other service providers.

Overview:

Spring Academy is a Seattle-based, AdvancED/NWAC accredited school serving student academic needs through one-to-one tutoring and courses for credit. In the last year we've greatly expanded our partnerships to include SPS as well as many individual schools throughout Seattle. Our school specializes in providing a customized educational experience for each student and is well-versed at accommodating for a variety of learning needs, including the challenges and risk factors of Levy focus students. We'd welcome the opportunity to serve and support you and your students. Please reach out to us with any questions, or for references from SPS, school administrators or parents. Thank you for your consideration of our support services.
