Ground Rules

Engage in active listening

Act and communicate with respect

- No “fixing”
- Make this a brave place to share stories (privacy)
- Step up – engage and push past comfort to your growing edge
- Step back – ask yourself W.A.I.T. = Why am I Talking?

Recognize that this topic may be difficult and emotionally taxing

The goal is not to agree – it is to gain a deeper understanding

Use “I” statements & speak from your own experiences

Expect and accept non-closure – be willing to sit with discomfort

Small Group Breakouts - 10 minutes

- Name
- Race
- Gender pronouns
- Organization
- Original Peoples Acknowledgement

Race is the best predictor of a person living near contaminated air, water, or soil.

–Seattle Equity and Environment Agenda

Tree canopy tends to be lower in areas with more BIPOC and low-income people.

–Seattle 2016 canopy study

EXPOSURE TO URBAN FORESTS

- boosts the immune system
- lowers blood pressure
- reduces stress
- improves mood
- increases ability to focus
- accelerates recovery from surgery or illness
- increases energy level
- improves sleep

–State of New York

TODAY'S PRESENTATION

- Tree protections update
- Racial Equity Toolkit process
- Racial equity outcomes
- RET findings and strategies
- What's next

Changes to explore include ...

- Expand the definition to include all exceptional trees over 24"
- Add an "in-lieu" payment as an alternative to replacing an exceptional tree
- Require a simple permit to remove a "significant" tree
- Require mitigation for any "significant" trees removed
- Explore ways to clarify and streamline the permit process
- Update draft Director's Rule for tree protections

WHERE WE ARE NOW

---

- Ensure that urban forestry services and benefits are distributed equitably across communities.
- Assume responsibility for mitigating historical impacts of City action.
- Reduce impacts to BIPOC communities due to having fewer trees.
- Reduce burdens of enhanced tree protections on BIPOC communities and businesses.

LESSONS FROM THE DATA WE HAVE

SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC CONTEXT

Median income

Median home price (thousands)

Home ownership

ROOT CAUSES

---

- Centuries of barriers
  - Legacy of slavery
  - Segregation
  - Labor discrimination
  - Redlining
- Continuing discrimination in workplace and hiring
- Language barriers
- Exclusion from processes
- Distrust, disillusionment
- Lack of resources to participate
- Green ceiling

BENEFITS AND BURDENS

BEWARE OF FALSE DILEMMAS

---

The City is committed to nurturing its urban forest for BIPOC and other communities AND meeting its other priorities.

BENEFITS

---

- Protect tree canopy: protect mature trees, replace trees, simplify codes, raise bar for service providers, possibly fund targeted tree planting
- Age and species diversity = increased urban forest health
- Improve compliance, administration, enforcement of tree protections
- Support data collection
- Clarity for service providers, residents

BURDENS

- Large, mature trees require maintenance
- Cost of new permit fee
- Cost of tree replacement or payment-in-lieu
- Care of newly planted trees
- Potential impacts on land area available for development, possibly affecting housing availability and cost
- Additional work and delays for builders, again potentially impacting availability and costs
- Could reduce flexibility for property owners
- Complexity of regulations and Increased requirements might impact BIPOC companies

ADVANCE OPPORTUNITY, MINIMIZE HARM

ADDRESSING IMPACTS/CONSEQUENCES

---

- Use exceptions to land use codes
- Consider low-income waivers, discounts and subsidies for things like permit fees, payments-in-lieu and maintenance costs
- Explore alternative funding sources
- Set fees and payments to be equitable yet effective
- Consider using payment-in-lieu to plant trees in BIPOC communities
- Focus on simplifying and streamlining regulations wherever possible

STRATEGIES TO ADDRESS ROOT CAUSES

- Focus preservation and planting on low-canopy BIPOC neighborhoods
- Use data such as home purchases and market-rate rentals by race and income; undertake studies if necessary and feasible
- Explore program to mitigate burdens associated with tree establishment and maintenance in BIPOC communities
- Consider low-income tree maintenance subsidies: value of trees as assets to the community

PARTNERSHIP STRATEGIES

- Engagement and outreach plan focused on BIPOC communities and on impacts of regulatory changes
- Culturally and linguistically appropriate communications to convey proposals and elicit input
- Continue to communicate and engage as we implement

RE-ALIGNMENT STRATEGIES

- Get new tree data and use it to advance racial equity (e.g., where we need more trees)
- ID impacts of protections in practice. Example: Get data to evaluate impact (if any) on cost of housing, particularly for disadvantaged BIPOC communities
- Do studies if necessary and feasible
