Voluntary Deferred Compensation Plan

 EMPOWER Invest well. Live a little.™

Your City of Seattle Voluntary Deferred Compensation Plan and Trust is now live with Empower

We're excited to announce that the move to Empower is complete. Sign in now at seattledcp.com to access a modern retirement experience designed to help you stay informed, take action, and feel confident about your savings.

Your account details and investments have transferred

Your account details and balance have transferred to Empower. Your investments remain invested according to your existing elections, including any certificates of deposit (CDs) held in your Nationwide account. You can still view your historical account information at Nationwide for up to 12 months by logging in at nrsforu.com.

Here's what to do next

- Register your account on the new Empower website seattledcp.com so you can view your balance, track your retirement income estimate, and personalize your settings.
 - To access your account for the first time, click the Register button, follow the prompts on the / do not have a PIN tab to enter your personal information, and create a username and password.

Note: While you'll use the same website address as you did at Nationwide, you'll need to register your new account with Empower. If you still see the Nationwide site when you go to the web address, try refreshing the page or opening it in a new browser window. If that doesn't work, you may need to clear saved files (called "cache") so the new Empower site appears.

- Review your beneficiary and investment elections and update if necessary.
- Confirm your loan and distribution details (if applicable) have been carried over to your new account.
- Add your salary information to make better use of the tools available to you.
- Review your contact information (phone and email address) and personal preferences so that you receive important account alerts. Change of addresses for those actively employed must be completed through City of Seattle.
