Briefing regarding proposed art display

The Board was generally supportive of the proposed reflections projected in the windows related to program inside, as described. However, they wanted to know if it is was possible to see the example without the colored lights also in the windows. The Board discussed that the colored lights were distracting. Staff noted that the Board has previously not supported colored lighting on buildings. Staff also noted that the Board carefully reviewed the effects of the existing lighting on King Street Station when the building was rehabilitated because of its iconic status.
