“THE CENTRAL AREA IS DIVERSE, DYNAMIC AND UNIQUE”

Jackson Street Music History Project. Artist, Derek Wu
EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The 23rd Avenue Action Plan (Union–Cherry–Jackson) will confirm and update priorities in previous Central Area action plans, and identify implementation mechanisms to turn passion into action.

The community worked together to create the Central Area Action Plan I (1992) and Action Plan II (1999) to manage growth and changes. Action Plan I "told the story of trying to recover a neglected neighborhood while keeping a wary eye on the human impact those changes might bring." In Action Plan II, the primary vision is "about managing the changes that nearly all community members see on the horizon." It also envisions "a multi-cultural community, proud of its African-American heritage as well as its many links to other cultures.” Physically it pictures the Central Area as "a series of unique individual urban villages and neighborhood magnets linked together in a common economy and a shared destiny." These plans are living, breathing documents that reflect the vision, goals and character of the Central Area community.

The Central Area is a neighborhood full of history, character, shops, organizations, schools and most importantly a community of people from a broad diversity of backgrounds. It is a community proud of its culture, heritage, and diversity of people and places. This richness derives from the fact that this neighborhood has always been a place of welcome. The Central Area has experienced changes that cause anxiety, fragmentation and disappointment for some people while also generating excitement and expectation in others. These changes can be seen in the demographics of the 23rd & Union-Jackson Urban Village. The percentage of the population who was Black/African American declined from 64% in 1990 to 28% in 2010, while the White population increased from 16% to 44% in the same time period (census data). Currently it is a neighborhood attracting significant private and public investment. The Central Area has been, and continues to be the center of the African American community with engaged youth and seniors; strong businesses; and a vibrant cultural district. It is time to refocus our efforts around key priorities for three community cores – to honor its history and shape its future. Achieving this will require the coordinated effort and investment of multiple city departments.

The Action Plan II includes strategies to "strengthen 23rd & Jackson ... to ensure that [it] remains the Central Area’s shopping focal point and a true ‘urban village;’ maintain 23rd and Union as the hub of the Central Area ... and the gathering place for the community;” and focus on the 23rd Ave corridor to ‘link the area with its rich cultural history.’" The 23rd Avenue Action Plan (Union–Cherry–Jackson) is not a replacement of the previous action plans, instead, it intends to confirm and update priorities in previous Central Area action plans with focus on 23rd Ave. at Union, Cherry and Jackson, and identify implementation mechanisms to turn passion into action. This will help make this great neighborhood a healthier, more equitable and viable destination for all people who call the Central Area home.

The planning process utilized the Healthy Living Framework to facilitate conversation with the community. With valuable community input, support and passion through the intensive outreach and engagement process, five priorities are formed with focus around the three community cores at 23rd Ave & E. Union St, 23rd Ave & E. Cherry St, and 23rd Ave S. & S. Jackson St: that the Central Area is a destination with unique identity recognizes the Central Area as the historical heart of the African American community while welcoming all people in a multicultural and layered environment that celebrates old and new; a neighborhood with connected people and community where community assets serve and reflect the community and are equitably accessed by all people including youth, seniors and people of color, and where people from all backgrounds connect, engage, and learn from one another; a great business community where commercial and community cores work together to provide a broad spectrum of goods and services, viable and sustainable commercial centers and proclaim the Central Area’s identity; a community with livable streets for all that includes an inviting street network for all transportation modes that safely connects to key destinations; a place that supports a healthy and stable community that provides a safe and comfortable environment, opportunities for physical activity, social interaction, and affordable as well as diverse housing choices. Based on these priorities, associated goals, policies, strategies and potential implementation actions are developed based on community input, and confirmed and prioritized by the community.

The 23rd Avenue ACT (Action Community Team) was formed at the beginning of project to work with the City and the community to hold the Central Area vision and balance the differing community interests. The ACT helped to confirm these top five priorities, and continues taking the lead in turning them into action. Under the guidance of the ACT, the Action Teams—hands-on work groups/implementation bodies consisting of diverse community members—will work with the community and the City to take on projects that create lasting change.
INTRODUCTION

This section provides background that initiates the action plan, as well as methods and procedures that involve in the plan development and implementation process.

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

This section describes the process through which community members provided guidance and invaluable information. It includes the various methods used to reach out to and engage the Central Area neighbors and stakeholders.

HEALTHY LIVING FRAMEWORK

This section describes the Healthy Living Framework and how the 23rd Avenue Action Plan project utilized this framework to facilitate conversation with the community, identify gaps and priorities in the community, and develop relevant strategies.

GOALS, POLICIES, & STRATEGIES

This section includes the key components of this Action Plan. The developed goals came about through confirming and updating those visions outlined in previous Central Area action plans. The Goals, Policies and Strategies build upon one another to help fulfill the shared vision of the Central Area community. They are a refinement of what we heard from the community. The various components of the Action Plan will guide the City and community’s work as well as inform future development that occurs in the neighborhood. Five priorities are laid out in this Action Plan including: A destination with unique identity, a neighborhood with connected people and community, a great business community, a community with livable streets for all, and a place that supports healthy and stable community. Each priority includes a vision discussion, associated goals, policies and implementation strategies.

APPENDIX

This section includes a Healthy Living Assessment which evaluates indicators for food access, physical activity and equitable development; a Initial Urban Design Study which provides early urban design and zoning recommendations to start community discussion; a Outreach and Engagement Summary that includes a tracking record of project related meetings and participants; and a Strategy and Action Matrix, a living implementation document that provides a list of potential strategies, the priority of each strategy identified through the community engagement process, and some examples of actions and their potential implementation parties and resources as suggested by the community and the City.

INTRODUCTION

WHAT IS COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT AND WHY?

In the 1990s, community members from 38 neighborhoods across the city created a 20-year vision for how each of their neighborhoods would grow. This work was done as part of the Seattle Comprehensive Plan initiative, a citywide effort that sought to “preserve the best quality of Seattle’s distinct neighborhoods while responding positively and creatively to the pressures of change and growth.” The Neighborhood Plans developed strategies to ensure that the “creative response” to growth was informed by both City expertise and local knowledge and priority-setting.

In the decade after the plans were completed, there were significant changes in Seattle and its neighborhoods, including growth in housing and major investments in public... amenities. Also, during this time the population of the city greatly diversified, requiring new strategies for civic engagement. In 2008, the Mayor and City Council recognized the need to revisit the plans through broad and inclusive discussions with the community—to confirm the neighborhood Vision, refine the plan Goals and Policies in order to take into account current conditions, and to update work plans to help ensure that each community’s vision and goals are achieved through the implementation of the strategies and actions. A targeted approach was taken to specific areas where large-scale change was taking place. Since then thousands of Seattleites have been engaged in completing neighborhood plan updates in the North Beacon Hill, North Rainier, Othello, Broadview/Bitter Lake/ Haller Lake, and Rainier Beach communities.

Through these planning updates, it was learned that the Plans are solid and continue to provide appropriate guidance for future planning and implementation. The Neighborhood Plan vision, goals and policies remain relevant, but increased focus is needed for detailed planning and implementation. The community's primary interest is in tangible change. In addition to "visioning," people want to address specific issues (e.g., sidewalks, open space, commercial district vitality) and/or broader social issues (e.g., displacement, access to services, education, youth opportunities). They are also focused on seeing implementation of projects that were identified in earlier neighborhood plans or plan updates. These are pressing issues that call for a more dynamic, community development-focused approach from the City. There is also a need to maximize the impact of public improvements, private investments and community will by leveraging these efforts to create greater change toward community and City goals. As a result, a new planning approach “Place-Based Community Development” was created to focus on implementing plans, and building community capacity to leverage change.

WHY THIS PROJECT?

The 23rd Avenue Action Plan is a placed-based community development project. Through an inclusive community engagement process, it aims to confirm and update visions in previous Central Area action plans with focus around the three community cores at 23rd Ave and East Union St, 23rd Ave and East Cherry St, and 23rd Ave South and South Jackson St., develop a shared vision, and create a framework for actions that leverage resources and investments.

It is important for the community and the City to work together to manage change and seize opportunities. This Action Plan articulates community goals so that the City, developers and neighborhood residents can work together to bring about the neighborhood vision. Many projects are happening in this area. Private property owners are exploring redevelopment of several key properties in these three community cores. Seattle Department of Transportation (SDOT) is beginning a street improvement project that aims to improve the beauty and safety on 23rd Ave from East John St to South Jackson St. The Office of Economic Development also supports building partnerships with property owners and businesses to revitalize commercial districts. Over the past two years, dedicated community members worked with City staff to assess and address those conditions that have changed since the 1998 Central Area Action Plan II. New neighbors and new voices work with those who participated in the planning two decades ago. Together, community members discussed what they value in the neighborhood, and outlined their priorities and ideas about how to achieve shared vision.

Central Area Goals and Policies in the City’s Comprehensive Plan have been updated to reflect current community discussion. The strategies and actions will be incorporated in a living document (see Appendix D) that defines priorities and responsibilities for next steps.
COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

Starting in early 2013, a broad cross-section of community members worked with City staff to assess and address those conditions that have changed since the 1998 Central Area Action Plan II. New neighbors and new voices worked with those who participated in the planning over twenty years ago. Through hands-on and interactive workshops, focus group meetings, individual workshops, in-person interviews, business canvassing, and online surveys, neighbors used a variety of ways to become and stay involved in the project.

Inclusive outreach and engagement was a primary objective of the planning process. A broad range of community stakeholders who live, work, play, attend school, own property, own a business, worship or have other personal and/or professional interest in the planning area were engaged in the planning process. Bicultural and/or bilingual Public Outreach and Engagement Liaisons (POELs) also connected with seven historically underrepresented communities to hear the voices of youth, seniors, the African/Black American community, immigrants and refugees communities (with a focus on Afaan-Oromo, Amharic and Tigrinya languages), and the Latino community. The POELs helped to strengthen the bridge between the City, community members, organizations and businesses. This intensive effort was necessary in order to build relationships with those who were new to the planning discussion, and to provide sufficient background information to help them participate effectively. POELs went beyond translation and interpretation to create culturally-appropriate opportunities for dialogue about planning, facilitate deeper understanding of community issues, and provide an atmosphere that promotes richer input. The Central Area community has shown great passion through different stages and levels of engagement.

At the initial phase 0 (inform phase) of the project from early February to April 2013, the community was informed about the project, asked for input and help with project outreach, and encouraged to recruit for the 23rd Ave Action Community Team (ACT). Project conversations started with hundreds of participants. These individuals were from a variety of backgrounds and included representatives from community-based and housing organizations, property owners, business owners, community members, and historically underrepresented community members. Input was received through various ways such as focus group meetings, individual workshops, in-person interviews, business canvassing, and online surveys. These conversations and feedback helped to reach the broader Central Area community, achieved a better understanding of the assets, issues, and opportunities, and developed a meaningful and effective dialogue for the first community workshop. The 23rd Avenue ACT was formed to work in partnership with the City and the community to hold the Central Area vision while balancing the different interests of the community with the goal of developing a shared vision and implementation plan. The ACT consists of...
Local leaders representing diverse ethnic background and interests including economic development, built environment, youth, art and culture etc. The ACT is also the leading entity for the implementation of the Action Plan and oversees the Action Teams. Action Teams are hands-on work groups/implementation bodies consisting of diverse community members. The Action Teams work with the community and the City to take on projects that create lasting change.

During Phase 1 (inspire phase) of the project in April 2013, the first community workshop was held at the Garfield Community Center to engage the community and generate passion. Over 150 participants with diverse backgrounds, race, ages, and interests were engaged in a dynamic discussion on the future of the Central Area. Among those, nearly 30% were Black or African American, and 46% were non-white participants. Instant polling surveys and map exercises were used to learn how people interact in the neighborhood; what is great and needs to be supported; what needs improvement; and what the future of the area should look like in order to reflect the needs of its residents.

All community discussions helped form five priorities (a destination with unique identity, connected people and community, a great business community, livable streets for all, and a place that supports healthy and stable community). Associated goals, strategies and actions were also developed as a result of this phase. Trust and collaboration were built between the community and the City.

During Phase 2 (ignite phase) from June to July 2013, two community open houses were held to share input, priorities and associated goals, strategies and actions. Over 140 participants confirmed the five priorities, and prioritized strategies and actions. Through this phase, the community started taking ownership and building partnerships. The action teams were formed by community members and organizations around the five identified priorities. The community was energized and ready to take actions.

During Phase 3 (implement phase) starting September 2013, a community meeting featured an open house and community action team workshop to refine goals and strategies, as well as build action teams. Over 100 participants reviewed and commented on the proposed goals and policies to ensure they reflect the shared community vision developed over the past year. The community also had the opportunity to connect with organizations already doing great work in the neighborhood at the Resource Fair. Action teams began discussion on work plans and how to join forces with community partners and City staff to start implementing specific projects.

Based on the community feedback, the Action Plan was further refined, and the Urban Design Framework (UDF) and rezoning work started to reflect the community vision for each community core. In September 2014, the ACT held the Central Area Block Party. The draft Action Plan, UDF and rezoning proposal were presented to the community. Over 1,000 community members of the Central Area were asked to review the proposals and to provide feedbacks.

Throughout the planning process, community stakeholders have been engaged and provided the project team with valuable input through 93 meetings (54 city-hosted meetings, 15 community organization-hosted meetings, 24 Advisory Core Team meetings), online surveys (127 participants), and business canvassing (67 businesses) (See appendix C). Over 2,000 total participants and 40 community based organizations helped form priorities, goals, strategies, and actions for the project. Over 100 participants signed up for action teams and started working together to turn passion into action!
HEALTHY LIVING FRAMEWORK

When we plan neighborhoods with an eye toward the people who use them, we can direct our activities (regulations and construction) that impact the built environment to strengthen the people and communities who live there. In stead of emphasizing on physical environment, our planning needs to connect people and places, and make sure places serve people. The Healthy Living Framework was developed to bring a focused attention to how planning choices for our neighborhood can improve our health.

A healthy community includes strong community and organizations, healthy people and families, and a supportive physical environment.

- Strong Communities & Organizations: A thriving and interconnected community that contains diverse households, supported by strong social and cultural institutions and services.
- Healthy People & Families: A neighborhood that provides access to resources such as healthy food retail and commercial destinations necessary to live a healthful life.
- Supportive Physical Environment (great places) that Support our Community: A natural and built environment that contains infrastructure supporting healthy activities such as parks, sidewalks, playgrounds, transit, shopping and services.

Healthy Living Assessment (HLA) was developed to assist in planning in response to the Healthy Living Framework. The HLA focuses on how people use their neighborhoods, specifically addressing areas of built and social infrastructure that have clear connections to people’s health. The information about community health factors gathered through the HLA helps project teams see interconnections between various aspects of the built and social environments and to recommend actions that can improve the health of community members.

The HLA included three data gathering tools that were used to identify health assets and health gaps in the project area. These tools include census and other similar data sources; a neighborhood questionnaire; and a set of community discussion questions to identify assets to preserve and opportunities to be healthier.

During Phase 0 of the project, the project team conducted an HLA (included in Appendix A of this Action Plan) in the 23rd & Union-Jackson Urban Village in Central Area, within which the community cores of this Action Plan are located. From the indicators that were analyzed (including food access, active transportation, goods and services, recreation, access to economic opportunities, and access to high-quality affordable housing), this area is well-served with lots of community assets and services. However, this is inconsistent with input from community stakeholder conversations in Phase 0. Based on this finding, the project team developed a thoughtful neighborhood questionnaire, and a set of community discussion questions for Phase 1 community engagement to identify overall vision, gaps and linkage to achieve priorities. For example, the dot exercises help identify where people go for shops and services, social gathering, and the areas that need improvements. The neighborhood questionnaire helped identify how people get around, the uniqueness of each community core, how people use the place, and what improvements are priorities. The community discussion questions went into a further discussion on people’s social connection with the community, and details on issues and opportunities. As a result, five community priorities were developed to help achieve a healthy community.
Jimi Hendrix and Ernestine Anderson both attended Garfield High. Hendrix, regarded by many as the greatest rock guitarist of all time. Anderson is known for her jazz and blues vocals and often appeared with fellow Garfield grad Quincy Jones in Jackson Street clubs.
GOALS, POLICIES AND STRATEGIES

As a result of the intensive engagement process, the community identified five priorities for the Central Area:

- A destination with unique identity recognizes the Central Area as the historical heart of the African American community while welcoming all people in a multicultural, and layered environment that celebrates old and new.

- A neighborhood with connected people and community where community assets serve and reflect the community and are equitably accessed by all people including youth, seniors and people of color, and where people from all backgrounds connect, engage, and learn from one another;

- A great business community where commercial and community cores work together to provide a broad spectrum of goods and services, viable and sustainable commercial centers and proclaim the Central Area’s identity;

- A community with livable streets for all that includes an inviting street network for all transportation modes that safely connects to key destinations;

- A place that supports a healthy and stable community that provides a safe and comfortable environment, opportunities for physical activity, social interaction, and affordable as well as diverse housing choices.

For each priority, associated Goals, Policies, Strategies and Actions were developed based on community input. The goals are desired short-term or long-term outcomes that the City and the community are working toward; the policies are general principles to guide decisions and achieve goals; the strategies are specific guidelines to achieve goals; and actions are specific and tangible implementation steps that together form a strategy. They build upon one another to help fulfill the shared vision and priorities of the Central Area community. They are a refinement of what we heard from the community. The various components of the Action Plan will guide the City and community’s work as well as inform future development that occurs in the neighborhood.

This section of the Action Plan includes goals, policies and strategies (correlated in shade) arranged by each priority. They were confirmed and prioritized by the community through workshop dot exercises and refined throughout the process. Some direct quotes from the community input were highlighted.

A detailed Strategy and Action Matrix is included in this document as Appendix D. This matrix is a living and working implementation document that provides a list of strategies, some examples of actions and potential resources as suggested by the community and the City during the project planning process. Potential resources in the matrix were listed as examples of the City’s competitive grants and not likely to be inclusive. The implementation party/parties of any specific actions will need to verify the funding opportunities and requirements. Other funds may be available from other organizations and agencies.
A DESTINATION WITH A UNIQUE IDENTITY

VISION DISCUSSION

The Central Area is a neighborhood that requires you to believe in it. It is an inclusive multicultural fabric—that welcomes all people, while it is also the heart of the region’s African American community. It has a wealth of cultural heritage—arts, schools, library and recreation, while it also has the neighborly feel of a village. It is authentic—a gritty urban fabric, while full of mature trees and historic architecture. It is layered—new and old; youth and elders; a single neighborhood with multiple business districts—and to those who are committed to it, its richness is revealed.

a. The Central Area is a community proud of its culture, heritage, and diversity of people and places. This richness derives from the fact that this neighborhood has always been a place of welcome and it has been, and continues to be the center of the African American community.

b. The three community nodes along 23rd Ave at Jackson, Union and Cherry are each distinct with a different niche, but together they exhibit or demonstrate the shared identity of the Central Area. These community nodes together serve the diversity of cultures in the Central Area and continue to be home to those businesses and institutions that are central to the African American community:

   • 23rd and Jackson - Shopping Center: the Central Area’s shopping focal point, and a true “urban village.”
   • 23rd and Union - Business/Restaurant Center: A small scale commercial hub serving the neighborhood, providing a range of residential housing types
   • 23rd and Cherry - Community/Historic Center: A small scale community and commercial hub providing a variety of education, youth and other community activities

c. The Central Area is a community that provides inclusive opportunities for everyone to participate in community projects.

VISION DISCUSSION

The Central Area neighborhood has an inviting street network that safely connects key destinations for transit riders, bicyclists and pedestrians. A principle arterial, 23rd Avenue, runs north-south and moves people and goods within and beyond the Central District. The intersections of 23rd Avenue with Union Street, Cherry Street, and Jackson Streets are identified as places that play important roles in the community. While we strive to accommodate and balance the needs of a variety of users throughout the neighborhood, improving the safety and the walkability of the connections to the three nodes along the corridor is paramount to their success.

GOALS

a. A community where residents, workers, students and visitors can choose from a variety of comfortable and convenient modes of transportation including walking, bicycling, and transit and where our reliance on cars for basic transportation needs is minimized or eliminated.

b. The neighborhood has an efficient and effective network of transit including linkages to the proposed East Link light rail station that supports land use goals and adequately serves the community.

SAFE AND LIVABLE 23RD AVENUE (SEPARATE SDOT PROJECTS)

23rd Avenue Corridor Improvements Project

The pedestrian, cycling, and vehicular environment of 23rd Ave prompted a broader evaluation and community conversation about the needs and opportunities to improve the corridor that serves as a spine for Central Area. Guided by Complete Streets guidelines, community input, as well as the near-term needs for bike riders, pedestrians and transit users identified in the recent master plans, SDOT expanded the project’s scope and area through several grants.

To balance the needs of users in the area, SDOT will be reconfiguring 23rd Ave between E John St and Rainier Ave S from the current four lanes (two lanes in each direction) to three lanes (one lane in each direction and a center turn lane). The corridor revisions aim to balance safety, mobility, and reliability needs for a variety of users in the area, as well as enhance the local community and natural environment.

Project will include benefits such as new pavement, wider sidewalk, lighting improvements, increased transit reliability, traffic signal improvements, public art, and implementation of an adjacent neighborhood greenway.

Central Area Neighborhood Greenway

Though bike facilities will not be accommodated on the modified 23rd Avenue as part of SDOT’s 23rd Avenue Corridor Improvement Project, a neighborhood greenway will be built near this busy arterial. Neighborhood greenways are non-arterial streets that prioritize bicycle and pedestrian travel by providing a more comfortable environment for people to walk, run, and bike. Potential features of the greenway include:

- Pavement markings and signage to alert motorists to expect people bicycling
- Improved crossings to make it easier for pedestrians and people on bicycles to cross
- Way-finding to let people know where and how far away the neighborhood destinations are located
- Median islands, traffic circles, curb bulbs and speed humps to help keep speeds low and drivers from using neighborhood streets to avoid main streets

APPENDIX B: INITIAL URBAN DESIGN STUDY

This appendix includes an initial urban design study for the Union, Cherry and Jackson nodes along 23rd Ave. It summarizes the community desire for each node based on community input during the 23rd Ave Action Plan (Union-Cherry-Jackson) process. Diagrams here suggested the preservation of existing community assets, development potential in these nodes and possible transition between existing single family zones and future development. It provides initial urban design and zoning recommendations to start community discussion. These recommendations will be further discussed and refined through the Urban Design Framework and rezoning process through working with the community, businesses, property owners, developers, institution and other stakeholders.

COMMUNITY CHARACTER

23rd and Union: This is a neighborhood scale destination with housing above businesses that draw customers from the larger neighborhood. It builds on what it already has: a cinema, churches and a major foundation that provides services. Plans are already underway on two key properties. This vision creates a cohesive fabric of buildings and uses by incorporating those two proposals to create a node that reads as a place – a place that draws people in – a destination.

23rd and Cherry: This is a smaller scale node with an abundance of community assets, especially for youth. It is home to a park, Garfield High School, community center, teen center, arts programs, and small businesses including culturally specific restaurants. The focus here is to improve safety through increased pedestrian activity on the sidewalks and more “eyes on the streets” and to create a finer grained place that allows those things that are special to this node, like Ezell’s, to stay and flourish.

23rd and Jackson: This is a larger scale node with regional destinations such as Pratt, the Wood Technology Center, Seattle Vocational Institute, and Langston Hughes nearby. It also has housing for a broad mix of people, social services and parks, with a library nearby. Finally, it is the place to shop for daily household needs. The proposal adds housing and businesses, and leverages a key site to improve community connections through the node.

This Strategy and Action Matrix is a living breathing implementation document that provides a list of potential strategies and actions. Strategies in this matrix were confirmed and prioritized by the community participants through workshop dot exercise and refined throughout the process. Actions were some examples of specific implementation steps as suggested by the community and the City during the project planning process. Departments and organizations listed in this matrix are some suggested supporting parties who may collaborate with the 23rd Avenue Advisory Core Team (ACT), Action Teams and other community stakeholders to take potential actions. Potential resources listed here are some examples of the City’s competitive grants. This list is not exhaustive and is for demonstration only. These funding opportunities and requirements will need to be verified for each specific action. However, they are not inclusive for each specific action. The implementation party/ies of any specific actions will need to verify the funding opportunities and requirements from the City, or seek other non-city funding opportunities if needed. The timeline listed here is for the proposed project initiation of specific action. They are flexible and will be determined by the availability and deadlines of potential funding, or by the work plan of the implementation party/ies.

Community Character and Identity

The Central Area is a neighborhood that requires you to believe in it. It is an inclusive multicultural fabric -- that welcomes all people, while it is also the heart of the region’s African American community. It has a wealth of cultural heritage -- arts, schools, library and recreation, while it also has the neighborly feel of a village. It is authentic – a gritty urban fabric, while full of mature trees and historic architecture. It is layered – new and old; youth and elders; a single neighborhood with multiple business districts – and to those who are committed to it, its richness is revealed.

Connected People & Community

The Central Area is rich in community assets. It has visual and performing arts programs; a continuum of educational facilities; and multiple business districts including some major employers. It is also a community with people from many different backgrounds. The opportunity here is to have the assets serve and reflect the community; and for communities to have meaningful connections with each other.

A Great Business Community

The Central Area is unique in that it has multiple discreet business districts, including 23rd Ave at Union, Cherry and Jackson. Working together they can provide a broad spectrum of the community’s goods and services, including healthy foods. These districts have different characters and have the opportunity to strengthen and solidify as distinct nodes that also work together to clearly proclaim the Central Area identity.

This plan can include 1) The development of a business attraction plan using local market data, current business mix and current gaps in products and services. 2) The development of a coordinated marketing plan to support current and future businesses at each node. 3) Conduct a market analysis to evaluate supply and demand of goods and services in the community for each core. The analysis would provide more of a basis for determining the types of businesses that could be attracted to the area. The analysis can include specific interests from the community like grocery coop, cultural food items, and places to gather, etc. 4) Create a database of businesses and commercial spaces for outreach and communication and to assist with business attraction and retention</td>
