

List of URMs Identified by Seattle DCI – April 2016

Seattle DCI has been updating our list of URMs previously published in 2012. We validated this list by reviewing photographs of the buildings, visiting selected buildings to view the exterior construction details, and reviewing permit records. We also consulted other documents to verify each building should be included on our list. Our list is intended to be a nearly complete list of URM buildings in Seattle. However, even if a building is not on our list, it would be subject to the new policy if it has URM bearing walls. Previously retrofitted buildings may not meet future seismic retrofit standards. Seattle DCI will determine the extent of retrofit that would be required by a future ordinance on a case-by-case basis. We will list buildings that have been retrofitted as URMs regardless of whether the building meets appropriate standards.

Descriptions of Columns

Preliminary Risk Category is a classification assigned to each building based on the height of the building, the occupancy, and the soil conditions.

Critical Risk (C) is assigned to buildings in the Emergency and Schools occupancy groups (see table below).

High Risk (H) is assigned to buildings over three stories in poor soil areas (liquefaction and slide areas); and buildings in the public assembly group with occupancies more than 100 people.

Medium Risk (M) is assigned to all other buildings.

Neighborhood is based on the Community Reporting Areas as defined by the US Census Bureau. See the map on page 4.

Address is one of the addresses of the building. Some buildings have multiple addresses and some are addressed off of more than one street.

Year Built is the year that the building was built based primarily on King County Assessor's records. Buildings listed as built in 1900 were built that year or earlier.

Stories is the number of stories above grade.

Retrofit Level

Sub Alt Substantial alteration is a Seattle Existing Building Code process used when the building is undergoing a significant renovation, change in use, or re-occupancy after being vacant. For URMs the building is upgraded to address deficiencies identified in a seismic report. Seattle DCI and the building owner can often negotiate a solution to gain the largest reasonable increase in the seismic safety of the buildings. In all cases, the most significant life-safety risks are addressed.

Permit Permitted retrofit is a category that encompasses everything from the building that has only had its parapets braced to a building that has had a complete voluntary retrofit. Sometimes a voluntary retrofit addresses most of the deficiencies in the system resulting in a building which exceeds the requirements of the proposed Technical Standard.

Visible Visible retrofits are those for which Seattle DCI could not locate a permit record, but there is external evidence that seismic strengthening work has been done.

No visible No visible retrofits are buildings for which Seattle DCI could not find permit records for seismic retrofits. It is possible that some of these buildings have had seismic retrofits done as part of other permitted work.

Occupancy Type and Occupant Load Occupancy descriptions and loads were taken from FEMA 154, "Rapid Visual Screening of Buildings for Potential Seismic Hazards." A brief summary of the occupancy types is included in the following table. Many buildings house mixed occupancies. For the purposes of data analysis, the combinations used are shown below.

Description of Occupancy per FEMA 154 Section 3.5.1
C	Commercial: Retail and wholesale businesses, financial institutions, restaurants, parking structures, and light warehouses.
E	Emergency Service: A facility that would likely be needed in a major catastrophe, such as police and fire stations, hospitals, and communications centers.
G	Government: Includes local, state ,and federal non-emergency related Buildings
H	Historic: Historic buildings may be subjected to specific ordinances and codes.
I	Industrial. Included in the industrial occupancy class are factories, assembly plants, large warehouses, and heavy manufacturing facilities.
O	Office: Clerical and management occupancies
P	Assembly: Places of public assembly > 300 or more people, such as theaters, auditoriums, community centers, performance halls, and churches.
R	Residential: Residential buildings such as houses, townhouses, dormitories, motels, hotels, apartments and condominiums, and residences for the aged or disabled.
S	School: All public and private educational facilities from nursery school to university level.
V	Vacant (not included in FEMA 154)
1	Occupant load of 1-10 people
2	Occupant load of 11-100 people
3	Occupant load &gt;101 people

Many buildings have more than one occupancy type. For data analysis, we grouped the mixed occupancy types (as defined above) into the categories shown in this table. For example, “C/R/O” refers to a building with Commercial, Residential, and Office uses. It is shown in the URM list as “Mixed” occupancy.

Listed Occupancy	Observed Occupancy Combinations
C	C, C/I, C/V
C/O	C/O
C/R	C/R
E	E
G	G
I	I
Mixed	C/R/O, O/R, R/O/I
O	O, O/I
P	C/O/P, C/P, C/R/P, G/P, O/P, O/P/G, P, R/O/P, R/P
R	R, R/G, R/I
S	C/R/S, C/S, O/S, P/S, S
V	V (Vacant)
