Bitter Lake Reservoir and Park Improvement Projects

Seattle Public Utilities (SPU) is designing a new drinking water reservoir in the Bitter Lake neighborhood that will replace the existing reservoir. Seattle Parks and Recreation (SPR) is leading the park and open space design in coordination with SPU, the Office of Arts & Culture (ARTS), and the Department of Neighborhoods (DON).

Enhancing, Expanding, and Engaging

SPU, SPR, ARTS, and DON are working together to design improvements to the Bitter Lake Reservoir site. This is a One Seattle effort to provide northwest Seattle with more open space, public art, and a new reservoir. The new site improvements will:

- Enhance

A new drinking water reservoir will improve water security, stormwater systems, and the layout of the site.

- Expand

More community gardening space, open public space, and new park features will be available for the community to enjoy.

- Engage

Permanent public art will represent and enrich the community.

Scan the QR codes or visit bitterlakereservoir.participate.online by February 26 to provide input on site improvements and park concepts.
