ARTS IN PARKS

Community Events and Public Art
May through November 2018

The Arts in Parks program supports new and established community festivals, art happenings and music concerts that enliven Seattle parks by promoting arts and culture, celebrating diversity, building community connections and energizing parks while connecting with underserved communities.

“Seattle is a vibrant city, and this is reflected through the distinctive art that can be found throughout our parks. The Arts in Parks program is an invaluable initiative that increases community access to art and builds upon Seattle Parks and Recreation’s commitment to strong communities. This program brings our parks to life with local art pieces and cultural events that engage community members, while highlighting each neighborhood’s unique character. Art that embraces and celebrates diversity strengthens our community, and we are excited to partner once again with local artists, neighborhood councils and community-based groups for this year’s Arts in Parks projects!”

Christopher Williams, Interim Superintendent, Seattle Parks and Recreation

“Arts activities in parks provide the community with opportunities to create spaces that promote a resilient, inventive, generous city. I’m proud to present a roster of programming that represents our city and the people we serve.”

Randy Engstrom, Director, Office of Arts & Culture

Applications for funding 2019 activities open in mid-August 2018. Visit seattle.gov/arts/arts-in-parks for information.

CHAPEL OF THE RIVERS

June 17–August 31

Dr. Blanche Lavizzo Park

Margot Myers will transform the Dr. Blanche Lavizzo Park amphitheater into a gallery of large-scale woodcut prints temporarily affixed to the concrete stairs. Each woodcut print depicts one of the major rivers of the Bristol Bay watershed, Margot's birthplace, seasonal home and workplace. The rivers are presented in an intimate setting without the traditional barriers associated with fine art. Please come walk in them, touch them and sit with them while you enjoy the amphitheater this summer.

COMING SOON

July 1–September 1

Dr. Blanche Lavizzo Park, Gerber Park, Powell Barnett Park and Pratt Park

In the context of rapid real estate development in the Central Area, “Coming Soon” will engage viewers with imagined visions for Africatown rooted in a sense of culture, identity and self-determination. Large-scale placards parodying the signage usually seen on to-be-developed properties will display artful collage renderings of utopian futures for Africatown, pushing public imagination about what could take root through organizing and culturally-relevant design.
