

ADVANCED METERING Opt-Out Application

Advanced Metering Opt-Out

City Light has changed to a new electrical metering standard using a digital communicating meter (an advanced meter). For an additional charge, residential customers have the option to select a non-standard meter (a non-communicating digital meter). Both meters are described below.

Advanced meters will connect to homes and businesses to collect customer energy-use information. The meters will provide automated wireless communication to City Light.

- Advanced meters record customer energy-use information throughout the day.
- Customer energy-use data will be sent several times a day to City Light using a radio frequency (RF) wireless network. This is similar to the wireless communications used by cell phones and Wi-Fi. The meters will transmit data for a maximum of 90 seconds per day.
- Once it is within City Light's secure firewall, the energy-use data will be matched up with customer accounts for billing and other customer service activities, similar to traditional metering practices.

Non-communicating digital meters are available to residential customers who choose to opt-out of the Advanced Metering program described above.

- This meter does not have an antenna or wireless communication radio. There is no radio frequency (RF) transmission from these meters. As a result, it does not receive or transmit customer energy-use data.
- The meter will have a digital display and a blue label to clearly designate it as an opt-out meter.
- Opt-out fees will apply.

Eligibility Guidelines to Opt-Out

- You must be a residential customer.
- Non-property owners who wish to opt-out must obtain signed permission from the property owner.
- You are responsible for providing and maintaining access to City Light for meter installation, maintenance, and reading. Failure to do so may result in termination of your opt-out participation, along with the installation of an Advanced Meter.
- Owners and tenants of buildings with 4 units or less are eligible for opt-out. Tenants must have the owner's permission to opt-out. If the building owner chooses to opt-out the entire building, the owner will be responsible for paying all fees associated with the opt-out meters for all units.
- Customers who live in any type of multi-unit dwelling with five or more meters in one location (i.e. a meter room or exterior wall) are not eligible to opt out.
- Net metering and commercial customers are not eligible to opt-out.

Comparing City Light Meters

As shown by the following chart, there are additional costs associated with opting out, and fewer benefits with a non-communicating digital meter. Fees cover the City Light's overhead, costs, ongoing maintenance, and meter reading related to the non-communicating digital meter and equipment.

Steps to Opt-Out

- Submit a complete application. Incomplete applications may delay processing.
- After City Light receives an application, the customer will receive an email to confirm the application has been received. If no email address is provided, a letter will be mailed.
- City Light will do its best to process applications in a timely manner. However, there may be cases where more information is needed before approval. For example, if a property owner in King County records does not match the owner listed on a City Light account, more information may be requested by City Light to confirm eligibility. This could delay processing of the application.
