

Attend our September Disaster Book Club Event

Wed, September 20, 2017

6:00 PM – 7:30 PM PDT

Broadview Public Library

12755 Greenwood Avenue North

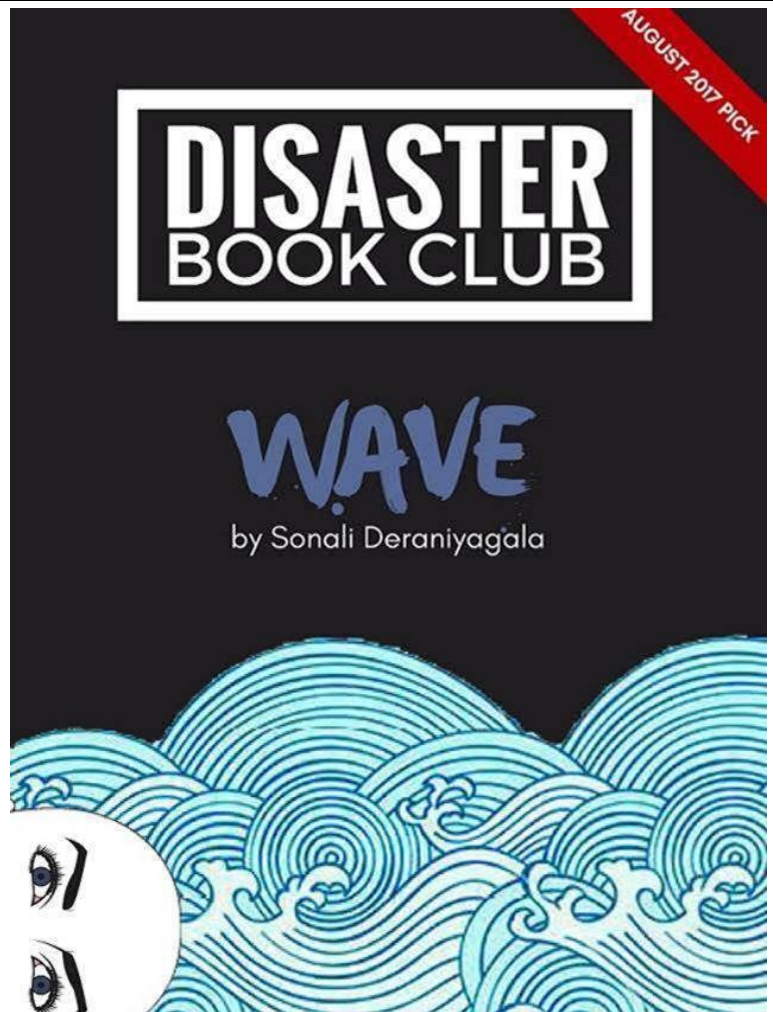

Seattle, WA 98133

Join us for our September Disaster Book Club event!

This month, we are reading Sonali Deraniyagala's powerful memoir about her experience in the 2004 Boxing Day Tsunami in South Asia. We will be featuring the documentary, "After the Wave" which explores the lives of survivors and the desperate attempt to identify victims and return them to their families.

Warning: The documentary contains graphic content and images and is not suitable for all viewers.

Pick up your copy of Sonali Deraniyagala's book, "Wave" at your local branch of the Seattle Public Library!

Prepare with your Neighbors, it's a SNAP!

The City of Seattle has created the Seattle Neighborhoods Actively Prepare (SNAP) program to help your neighborhood get organized.

We encourage people to not only prepare themselves and their families, but to talk to their neighbors about how they will work together to make sure everyone in the neighborhood is safe and cared for.

There is an online toolkit that provides practical step-by-step instructions on organizing as a neighborhood. The Seattle Office of Emergency Management can facilitate a discussion to help your neighborhood get organized. SNAP is a simple and flexible process that can be customized to meet the needs of your neighborhood.

Learn a Skill with our Online Videos

Access instructional videos via the Online Training section of our website. Learn how and when to turn off your gas and water after an emergency, and how to properly use a fire extinguisher. These videos are great refreshers for those that have taken one of our skills classes in the past, or a great intro for those that have not!
