

Gig Worker Paid Sick and Safe Time Fact Sheet

The Gig Worker Paid Sick and Safe Time Ordinance provides certain gig workers access to paid sick and paid safe time (Gig Worker PSST) from transportation network companies and food delivery network companies. Beginning July 13, 2020, this temporary law allows covered gig workers to take days (24-hour increments) of paid leave to care for their own health and safety, or the health and safety of a family member, under qualifying circumstances. The requirement to provide Gig Worker PSST will expire 180 days after the end of any COVID-19 civil emergency.

Which companies are covered by this law?

This law applies to Transportation Network Companies (TNCs), licensed according to Seattle Municipal Code 6.310, and Food Delivery Network Companies (FDNCs) that have hired 250 or more gig workers worldwide. FDNCs include companies that offer prearranged food, beverage, or grocery delivery services for compensation using an online or cellphone application to connect customers with delivery workers.

Which gig workers are covered by this law?

This law applies to gig workers who accept offers of trips or deliveries for payment from a covered TNC or FDNC. To be covered by the law, a gig worker must make a trip or delivery with a drop-off or pick-up point in Seattle.

How much Gig Worker PSST do workers earn?

Covered gig workers earn one day of Gig Worker PSST for every 30 days worked in Seattle after October 1, 2019. Each day with at least one pick-up or drop-off in Seattle counts towards accrual.

For accrual between October 1, 2019 and July 13, 2020, hiring entities must choose one option to apply to all their Seattle gig workers:

- Calculate accrual individually by the standard method (one day for every 30 days worked in Seattle), or
- Provide five days of PSST on July 13, 2020.

	Accrual Before July 13, 2020	Accrual After July 13, 2020
Option 1	One day of PSST for every 30 days worked* since October 1, 2019	One day of PSST for every 30 days worked*
Option 2	5 days of PSST	One day of PSST for every 30 days worked*

*“Days worked” are those with at least one pick-up or drop-off in Seattle.

Hiring entities must notify covered gig workers of the accrued, reduced and available balance of Gig Worker PSST at least once a month.

How much does a worker get paid for a day of Gig Worker PSST?

Gig workers are paid for PSST based on their “average daily compensation,” calculated by the following steps:

- 1) Determine the gig worker’s highest-earning calendar month since October 1, 2019, only looking at days with work (at least one pick-up or drop-off) in Seattle. Include all payments, bonuses, commissions, and tips.
- 2) Calculate the average earnings for days worked in Seattle in that highest-earning calendar month. Take the total earnings and divide by the number of days.

When can a gig worker use Gig Worker PSST?

A gig worker can start using Gig Worker PSST after they have accrued their first day, if they have worked for the hiring entity in Seattle within the previous 90 days. A gig worker can use paid sick and safe time to care for themselves or a family member:

- For care related to mental or physical illness, injury or health condition, medical appointment, or preventive medical care;
- When the hiring entity has suspended or discontinued operations by order of a public official to limit exposure to an infectious agent, biological toxin, or hazardous material;
- When a gig worker’s family member’s school or place of care has been closed;
- When the hiring entity has reduced, suspended, or otherwise discontinued operations for any health- or safety-related reason; or
- For reasons related to domestic violence, sexual assault or stalking that affect the gig worker or the gig worker’s family or household member.

If a gig worker requests more than three consecutive days of Gig Worker PSST, a hiring entity may request reasonable information to verify that a gig worker is taking leave for a covered reason. The hiring entity cannot inquire about the nature of the use, only that the reason is an authorized one.

How do gig workers access their Gig Worker PSST?

A gig worker may request their PSST through the electronic process provided by the hiring entity. Once requested, the use begins immediately and lasts 24 hours. When gig workers request Gig Worker PSST from a hiring entity, they are expected to not accept a trip or delivery for the next 24 hours. Hiring entities must notify workers when their 24-hour increment of Gig Worker PSST will end. If a gig worker accepts a trip or delivery during the 24-hour period, the hiring entity may not penalize the gig worker, but they can deny the gig worker payment for the day of Gig Worker PSST and return that day of Gig Worker PSST back to the worker’s accrued balance.

Hiring entities must pay out Gig Worker PSST within 14 calendar days of the request, or at the next regularly scheduled date of compensation.

Covered hiring entities must provide the following written notices to workers:

- Notice of the rights granted by this law, including freedom from retaliation.
- The hiring entity’s policy and procedure to meet the requirements of the law.
- Monthly notifications of (1) the gig worker’s current rate of average daily compensation for use of Gig Worker PSST, as well as (2) the number of Gig Worker PSST days that have been accrued, reduced, and available for use.

This information must be provided online or by phone application, in English and the worker’s primary language.
